

Gesthimani Mintziori, MD, MSc, PhD

Reader, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki Medical School

Biography

Gesthimani Mintziori is an Endocrinologist, currently working as a Reader in Aristotle University School of Medicine (AUSoM). Immediately after receiving her Medical Degree (AUSoM, 2004) she received her M.Sc. Degree (Medical Research Methodology, AUSoM 2006). In 2014 she completed her PhD with distinction (AUSoM). In 2019-2021 she was awarded with scholarship for her post-doc research by the State Scholarship's Foundation (IKY). She has completed her residency in Endocrinology at the Department of Endocrinology, Ippokration Hospital, Thessaloniki and is now working as an Endocrinologist and as a faculty member (Reader) in the English-speaking AUSoM.

Gesthimani Mintziori is an author of many peer-reviewed articles, her works have received awards in European and International Congresses and in 2016 she was awarded as "International Endocrine Scholar" by the European Society of Endocrinology (ESE). She is an Associate Editor of the journal "Endocrine" and Senior Editor, Reviewer and a Review Editor in many peer-reviewed journals in the fields of endocrinology and reproduction. She participates as a tutor at the pre- and post-graduate curriculum of the AUSoM. She was a founding member and a co-Chair of the European Young Endocrine Scientists, the official representative body of young Endocrinologists within the ESE.